Consent for Acupoint Injection Treatment therapy

AITPain Physician Dr. Shlomi Gavish, DOM, LAc,

Dr. Shlomi Gavish, DOM, LAc, has recommended that you receive acupoint injection therapy/treatment. This is the injection of homeopathic substances (usually a combination of plant/animal substances) into specific acupuncture points on the body in an effort to stimulate a more natural healing response. You have notified Dr. Shlomi Gavish of any existing allergies to any medications that you are aware of in your medical history, be they from substances ingested either oral (taken by mouth), topical(applied to the skin surface), or injectable(dental injections for cavity). Examples of such reactions that you would have experienced include redness, swelling, itching, burning, difficulty breathing, and swelling of the lips or tongue. The substances that we use for acupoint injection are Register FDA, non-experimental, and usually adverse effect(side-effect) free. It is not unusual however, for you to experience some minor discomfort at the injection site/s following treatment. This can vary from patient to patient and usually resolves within a 24hr time period. Occasionally some patients experience light bruising at the injection site/so This will usually resolve within a short time period. I have been informed and agree to contact this office immediately if I experience any redness, swelling, prolonged soreness, bruising, itching, difficulty breathing, or swelling of the lips or tongue following any treatment utilizing acupoint injection therapy/treatment.
